has had the subject under claborate consideration for a month past, and submitted a long report: They declare that trichina have been found in swine slaughtered in that city, and that out of 1,394 examined, twenty-eight, or about one in fif y, were infected. They unanimously declare that swine may be kept from contracting the disease if now allowed animal food, and that pork may be used without the slightest apprenension if the following conditions are complied with: That every portion of the meat cooked experience a temperature of at least 160 deg ces Faurenhei ; or that it ie proper y saited and smoked for ten days; or that it be the roughly desiccated. In fact, in old hams, trichina is never found. Pickling,

It api ears from the statements made in thi report that trichina exists in the swine of this country to a much greater extent than in Germany, the propertion in that country being on y 1 in 10,000; and, further, that the number of trichina in the infected hogs is also much of truchina in the infected hogs is also much greater—being, in some of the cases examined, diate relief. For Coughs and Colds they are inas high a. 18 000 to the cubic inch. The committee do no tolok there has been as ngle in stance an hentically reported in America 1 death from triching. In their view, it would be to ly to disc rd this sand of meat from our list of articles of food, when all possibility of injury actending its use may be avoided by the most simple means. Let the prople understand that only one hog in three hundred contains triening in sufficient numbers to caus considerable danger, and that even in these cases the worms are rendered innocuous by proper moking, drying or cooking.
